Greetings,

1) What's Here

As part of our trademark watching service, trademark reports are periodically generated by third-party search firms in order to find potentially conflicting trademarks. Trademark watching is a good way to protect your investment in your trademarks and helps you find and fix problems before they get out of hand. We have attached the latest trademark watch report(s) for the subject mark.

2) Requested Action

Please review the attached report(s). If two trademarks are similar enough and if the markets for the goods/services are similar enough, then the marks could cause confusion. The legal standard is "likelihood of confusion," which means that confusion (in the mind of potential buyers of your products/services) must be probable, not just possible.

Based on this standard, we do not anticipate any problems with the marks cited in the report(s). You should, however, independently review the report(s) to make your own determination.

3) Next Steps

If you'd like us to take any action, such as drafting cease and desist letters, let us know.

Let us know if you have any questions. Thanks.

Regards,
Erik

Disclaimer

The following watch report is not to be construed as a legal opinion as to the registrability of the trademark.

The following report is based upon the United States Patent and Trademark Office records of registered, published and pending trademarks, including records of cancellations, assignments, abandonments and oppositions; registrations in the fifty states and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico; marks listed in trade directories, online databases, CD-ROM databases and advertising media; business names listed in trade directories, major telephone directories and company name databases, as applicable. This watch also includes records obtained from ICANN-accredited domain name registrars, if applicable.

CT Corsearch has taken reasonable steps to provide a complete and accurate search of its databases from information provided by the user; however, CT Corsearch cannot warrant or guarantee that its databases, its information, its search or this report are complete and error free, or that the most up-to-date information has been provided by the USPTO, Secretaries of States or ICANN-accredited registrars.

User understands that trademark searches are highly subjective and that the user is solely responsible for additional legal research or advice, which may be necessary, as well as review, interpretation and use of this report. Any liability related to conduct of the search and preparation of this report is limited to refund of the fees paid by the user. This report is confidential and may not be furnished to others by CT Corsearch. This report should only be used for the purpose of determining the availability of the mark for which the research is provided.
